

An abstract painting featuring a large, vibrant red area in the center, surrounded by warm orange and yellow tones. Dark, expressive black lines and strokes are layered over the other colors, creating a sense of depth and movement. The surface of the painting appears textured, with visible cracks and variations in pigment intensity, suggesting an ancient or weathered quality.

People have been painting with the colourful oxides of iron for more than 20,000 years