

DANAKIL DEPRESSION This hot spring in Africa's Danakil Depression is surrounded by a yellow crust of pure sulfur. The sunken region between Ethiopia and Eritrea in East Africa is a wild volcanic area, packed with erupting craters, arid deserts, boiling mud, and pools with unusual colours caused by the presence of sulfur and many mineral salts.