

FLY GEYSER The multicoloured Fly Geyser in the Black Rock Desert of Nevada, USA, is made from a mound of calcium carbonate rock. Such mounds and pools are made naturally in many other places where springs gush out warm, calcium-rich waters. The amazing colours of the rocks are caused by algae and bacteria that live in this water.