

- Figure out how to use a baby sling. If traveling by car or public transportation, learn how to fold and unfold a stroller.
- Do not carry your baby far in a car seat because it's bad for your back.

JAUNDICE

By day four, about a third of all babies are visibly jaundiced. Jaundice in newborn babies is usually harmless and is due to an elevated level of the waste product bilirubin in the blood, caused by the baby's immature liver. Very high levels of bilirubin can cause problems and are treated with light therapy (see Jaundice).
