

When two eggs are fertilized at the same time, nonidentical twins are formed, each with its own placenta and amniotic sac.