

NAILS AND SCRATCHING

Babies' nails grow quickly and are also very tricky to cut! However, to stop your baby from scratching their face, you'll need to keep them trimmed. Be careful not to rip the edge of the nails since this can cause infection.

- You can buy special baby scissors, although these may not cut the nails short enough to prevent scratching.
- Filing the nails keeps them short.
- You may want to put mittens on your baby until they are past the scratching stage.
