

In some countries, there is great emphasis placed on protecting the unborn baby:

- Hindu fathers part the hair on their partner's head three times upward from the front to the back to boost the development of the growing baby.
- In Thailand, the pregnant woman's abdomen may be painted to ward off evil spirits. It is also believed that giving gifts before the birth will attract evil spirits.