

With an ever-growing body of knowledge on how a mother's behavior in pregnancy impacts her baby's immediate and long-term health, you have the opportunity to ensure that your lifestyle choices positively benefit your baby. Eating healthily, exercising regularly, and avoiding hazards will all help give your baby the best possible start in life.