

For these reasons, you will be monitored to be sure that both you and your baby remain healthy. This way, any potential problems can be addressed and hopefully rectified early on. You will be offered increased monitoring and regular scans to check the growth of your baby.

You may be offered aspirin to start between 12 and 16 weeks to reduce the risk of preeclampsia.

Due to a slight increase in late stillbirth you will also be offered induction of labor around your due date.

Try not to see the extra monitoring as an intrusion. It's great that you're in good shape, and if you continue to take care of your health and exercise regularly, you will reduce the risks of any complications occurring.
