

Try to eat iron-rich foods. There are two types of iron: heme iron found in animal foods is easily absorbed—eat lean red meat, canned sardines, and eggs. Nonheme iron is less well absorbed. It's found in whole-grain cereals, legumes, green vegetables, and dried fruit. Vitamin C helps iron absorption, so have tomatoes with a meal or orange juice with breakfast. Tea and coffee inhibit absorption so avoid them at mealtimes.

