

When you're a bit down, ask for a hug from your partner or a close friend or relative, and remember the negative feeling will pass.

TOXOPLASMOSIS

Toxoplasmosis is a rare disorder caused by a parasite living in some animals that can harm a developing fetus. The symptoms may resemble those of mononucleosis with a fever and/or swollen glands in the neck.

It can be spread through cat feces, so avoid changing cat litter boxes, and avoid handling newborn lambs. Be scrupulous about hygiene in the kitchen and make sure you cook meats fully. Home-cured meats, such as salami and chorizo, should be avoided or cooked, since the salting
