

nutritionist), which helps the baby's brain development. Vitamin A is also found in dairy fat, so cheese and whole and low-fat milk all provide some.

- For calcium: Have fortified alternatives such as soy or nut milks, tofu, and dried figs. Eat canned fish with small bones, such as sardines.
- For riboflavin (vitamin B2): Choose fortified breakfast cereals, lean beef, chicken, and turkey.
- For vitamin A: As retinol, eat egg yolk, mackerel, salmon, or other oily fish. As carotenes (from plants), eat carrots, sweet potatoes, red peppers, spinach, kale, cantaloupe, mango, and papaya.