

- Talk through your problems with your partner or a close friend. If you're worrying about any aspect of your health or how your baby is developing, seek reassurance from your doctor.
- If work is an issue, be honest with your boss or the HR department and they may be able to help. Your most important job right now is to nurture your baby.

