

The leg bones are measured to assess how your baby is growing.

The four chambers of the heart can be identified and certain defects spotted.