

Be aware that it could be expensive to have a 3-D scan and if your baby is in the wrong position, you may not get a great result. The position of the placenta, amount of amniotic fluid, and your size are all factors that can affect the quality of the picture.

