

reduce stress, and to put things into perspective. By the time the baby arrived, we were both much more relaxed.

WEIGHT GAIN IN THE THIRD TRIMESTER

In your third trimester, gaining weight steadily is important. If you were a healthy weight before your pregnancy, you should gain 3–5 pounds in the first trimester and 1–2 pounds a week the rest of your pregnancy, for a total of 25–37 pounds. Keep in mind that the largest contributing factor to your overall weight gain will be your baby, followed by extra fat, which you will need to sustain your pregnancy and when breastfeeding.

Weight gain chart

