

However, recent studies have demonstrated that the chances of the blood being used are 1:5,000 to 1:20,000, and it is very expensive to store. Consider, instead, donating the cord blood to a public cord blood bank. Donated blood is used to treat patients who need it the most.