

will help you feel more full, which can help prevent overeating and excess weight gain. If you eat a fiber-rich breakfast, for example, you're less likely to snack an hour later.

Fiber also contributes to the management of diabetes, lowers cholesterol, and decreases the risk of heart disease.

