

Your blood pressure will be monitored regularly at this stage because a high reading can be a sign of preeclampsia.

ESSENTIAL CHECKS

Some of the regular tests you will have in the third trimester are designed to check for preeclampsia. A combination of high (or rising) blood pressure and protein in your urine can be an indication of preeclampsia; another sign of this condition is extreme swelling, particularly of the face and/or ankles.

ASK A DOCTOR

Will I have to give back my maternity pay if I decide not to return to work? This is a little bit complicated, and it's a good idea to get some legal advice. In a nutshell, if you do not return to work after your maternity leave, you must resign.