

Your 35th week

TRY TO STAY ACTIVE, EVEN THOUGH YOU MAY BE SLOWING DOWN BY NOW.

Getting exercise is probably the last thing on your mind, but it's worth the effort. The more you move, the more energy you will gain. Gentle exercise will also help relieve some of the aches and pains of pregnancy at this stage. The baby's movements may also change as they have less room to move around. Instead of kicks, they may be shuffling around. They're busy, though, practicing for the outside world, learning to suckle and focus vision.
