

You may find that you soon become too tired to go out shopping and carry lots of bags. Buy a few items at a time and shop online when you can.

There are certain things that are worthwhile purchasing by around 37 weeks, just in case you go into labor before your due date. First, buy the small baby-care items you'll need right after the birth (see Buying for your baby) plus a car seat and a bassinet or crib. If going out shopping becomes difficult in late pregnancy, consider buying some items online.
