

problems, the baby is healthy and in head-down position, of normal size, and any condition that necessitated your last Cesarean isn't present. If you have diabetes, high blood pressure, or are pregnant with multiples, you are not a candidate for VBAC.

THINKING ABOUT BREASTFEEDING

You may have started thinking about whether to breastfeed. At this stage, try to remain open-minded. Some women who are adamant they will breastfeed find it harder than they expect, while others who don't like the idea of breastfeeding take to it very easily. Whichever camp you fall in, know that it's okay to change your mind and your method of feeding. Even if you don't manage to breastfeed for as long as you'd like, try to start your baby off at the breast. Breast milk provides unique antibodies and protective substances to boost your baby's immunity.
