

Anterior presentation The baby is lying head down (known as cephalic) and their spine is facing away from your spine. The smallest part of the head will push down the birth canal first.

Posterior presentation The baby is lying head down, but their spine is against your spine. From here, they need to make a bigger turn as they descend through the birth canal, so labor can take longer