

Sitting astride a chair can be a relaxing position because this enables you to lean forward with your legs astride while remaining supported.