

As the head crowns, the doctor will check that the cord isn't around the baby's neck, and may then apply gentle traction to the sides of the head to help deliver the shoulders.