

The zygote divides into two identical cells, and continues to divide as it travels down through the fallopian tube.