

SMART PRODUCTION LINE

Some industrial plants, such as this Mini car factory in Cowley, UK, use intelligent robots that can run unsupervised for weeks at a time. Welding together the chassis and other car body parts was once done by humans. Today, machines do this work, communicating with each other and regulating their own workflow.