

RIVAL BOWMEN

The key to the victory of the English at Crécy was the success of their longbows and the relative ineffectiveness of the Genoese crossbows. In this late 15th-century image, longbows and crossbows engage in an improbable close-quarters duel.