

Uruguay

Ratio: 2:3 Adopted: July 11, 1830 Usage: National and Civil

The Sun of May has been a national emblem since the 19th century

Blue and white are also the national colors of Argentina, from which this flag derives

The nine stripes represent the nine departments

South America

Historically a Spanish colony, Uruguay was annexed to Brazil and then to Argentina before becoming fully independent in 1830.

The colors, blue and white, and the Sun of May on the current flag come from the Argentinian flag.

THE FLAG OF ARTIGAS

The colors were brought to Uruguay by José Artigas, who led the movement for separation. His flag was blue and white striped, with a red diagonal. Variations of this flag remained in use after Uruguay was annexed to Brazil in 1821.

When full independence was assumed, the present form of the flag was instituted. The nine stripes represent the nine departments. The Sun of May has been used as the national emblem since 1815 and now appears as the crest on the coat of arms.

FLAG OF ARTIGAS

This flag was used as a Jack for naval vessels until the late 1990s. The colors derive from those of Argentina's flag

Red represents the "Banda Oriental" (the "East Bank") of Uruguay