

This 18th-century, hand-colored copperplate engraving shows disciplined ranks of red-coated Hanoverian troops falling upon Jacobite Highlanders at the Battle of Culloden, the last battle of the Jacobite uprising.

THE EAST AFRICAN PORT OF

MOMBASA was used in the 18th century for trade in gold, ivory, and slaves. Mombasa was held for 200 years by the Portuguese, until a native rebellion drove them out in 1729. The Arabs of Oman took over, and in 1744, with a new dynasty installed in Oman, the new governor of Mombasa seized power there from the Omanis. He was killed by Omani assassins in 1745, but his brother, 'Ali ibn Athman (r. 1746–55) stirred up a rebellion and the assassins were executed. 'Ali ibn Athman proclaimed himself Sultan of Mombasa, thereby securing the port's independence from Oman.

Meanwhile, Prussia's war with Austria (see 1740) continued. In the Second Silesian War (1744–45), the Austrians tried to regain Silesia, but the Prussians eventually defeated the forces of Empress Maria Theresa in 1745 in the battles of Hohenfriedberg, Soor, and Kesselsdorf. Maria Theresa finally recognized

Deadly Coehorn mortar

The Hanoverian army at Culloden had six short-barreled Coehorn mortars; easily portable, they were deadly weapons on the battlefield.

Frederick II's sovereignty in Silesia by signing the Treaty of Dresden at the end of the year; in return, Prussia recognized her husband, Francis, as Holy Roman Emperor. This left only France prosecuting the War of the Austrian Succession (1740–48).

In 1744, France attempted a major invasion of Britain in support of Prince Charles Edward Stuart (1720–88)—grandson of the deposed Stuart King James II and the "Young Pretender" to the Hanoverian throne of Britain. But the invasion foundered due to terrible weather. In 1745, "Bonnie Prince Charlie," as Charles became known, crossed to Scotland and rallied the Jacobite chiefs of several Scottish Highland clans to march on England. The Scots defeated a Hanoverian force in the Battle of Prestonpans and eventually reached Derby but then retreated, having gained little support from the English or the French. Military successes followed on their return to Scotland, but in 1746 the Scottish force was overcome by a Hanoverian force at the Battle of Culloden. The hounding and killing of fleeing and wounded Highlanders earned the Hanoverian commander, William Augustus, Duke of Cumberland, notoriety as the "Butcher of Culloden." The battle ended the Second Jacobite Rebellion and wiped out Jacobite hopes of regaining power in Britain.

In 1745, an English farmer began experiments in selective animal breeding that were to revolutionize animal husbandry. The principle of mating animals with desired traits was already known, but the methods developed by farmer Robert Bakewell were better than earlier ones. His work resulted in the New Leicester breed of sheep and New Longhorn cattle breed, both of which are still widely influential in animal breeding today.

In Japan, the hold of the Tokugawa dynasty on power was weakening. In 1745, Tokugawa Ieshige (1712–61) was elected as shogun. The retiring shogun's eldest son was poor in health, defective in speech, and had little interest in government affairs, but his father demanded his succession as primogeniture dictated. Natural disasters and famine characterized his reign, and as the power of the mercantile class grew, his own authority declined, the result of poor decisions and delegation of power to subordinates.

Meanwhile, France was still at war with Austria and its allies. In 1746 a French force, authorized by Governor-General Joseph Francois Dupleix (1697–1763), took the British-held Indian port of Madras. In 1747, Dupleix followed this with an attack on Fort St. David, the strongly fortified British headquarters in southern India, 100 miles (160 km) south of Madras, but this time he was unsuccessful. However, the French remained in occupation of Madras until the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle (see 1748) returned the port to the British in exchange for Louisbourg in Nova Scotia.

In China, during the reign of the Qianlong Emperor (r. 1736–99), Christians were subjected to renewed persecution from 1746 to 1748 as a matter of imperial policy. In 1715, Pope Clement XII had criticized idolatrous elements in Chinese religious practices, and the Qianlong Emperor realized that Chinese Christians felt greater loyalty to foreign powers than to him. In this battle the victorious Prussians had significantly fewer casualties than the Austrians and their allies from Saxony.
