

COOKING IN THE CASTLE

This illustration from a 15th-century manuscript shows a busy baker working hard at a huge wood-fired oven, baking bread and pies. Most castles had their own dedicated bakery as part of a larger kitchen where cooks prepared food for the many people who lived within the walls.

