

1848

KARL MARX AND FRIEDRICH ENGELS PUBLISH THE COMMUNIST MANIFESTO

In the Communist Manifesto, Marx and Engels laid out their theory of history, which they interpreted as a series of class struggles that would inevitably see the workers (proletariat) overthrow the ruling class (bourgeoisie). Arguments soon raged across Europe about what shape this revolution would take and what the state's role should be, contributing to the development of socialism, Communism, and anarchism.

▷ Marx and Engels monument

1818-83
KARL MARX

A German philosopher, social theorist, and economist, Marx is among the world's most influential thinkers; his theories have shaped intellectual, economic, and political history.

1848 The first US women's rights convention is held at Seneca Falls, kickstarting the women's suffrage movement

1849

1847 Liberia declares independence from the US, becoming Africa's first modern republic

1848 California's gold rush begins when gold is found at Sutter's Mill, Coloma

△ Hungarian revolution, battle scene

1849

END OF THE SIKH EMPIRE

Formed in 1799 by Ranjit Singh, the Sikh Empire fell to the British after Singh's death in 1839. Having disposed of the Empire's formidable regent, Jind Kaur, in the first Anglo-Sikh War (1845-46), the British secured the Empire's dissolution in the second (1848-49), breaking it into several princely states and the British province of Punjab.

▷ Maharani Jind Kaur

