

The Charleston became the most popular dance of Jazz Age America. A fast-moving dance, it involved swinging the arms and kicking the legs. Other popular dances were the Lindy Hop and the Black Bottom: all were rooted in music from African-American communities.

