

c. 479 BCE Confucius dies
and his disciples begin compiling the Analects which record his sayings

c. 440 BCE Herodotus
writes the first known history book, the nine-volume Histories

449 BCE A law code, The Twelve Tables of the Laws, is published in Rome by the governing decemviri

431–404 BCE The Peloponnesian War is fought between the Delian League led by Athens and the Peloponnesian League led by Sparta

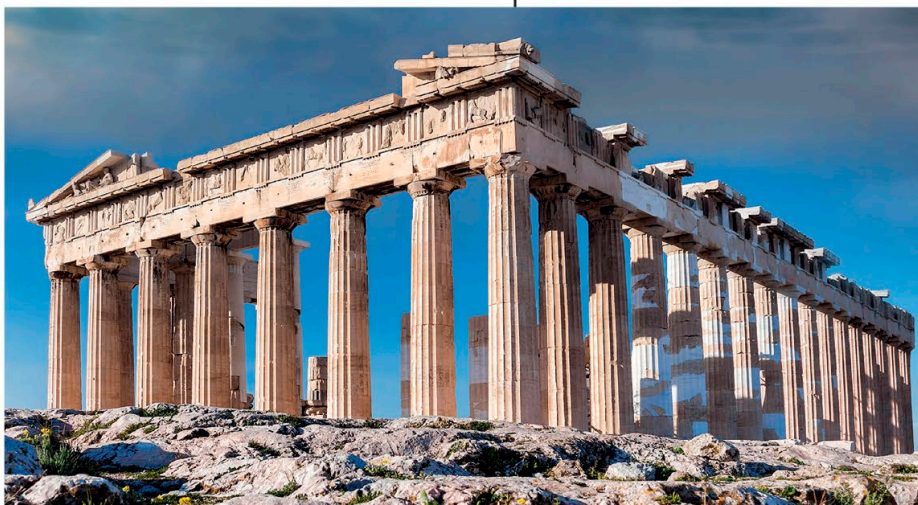

401 BCE

c. 484–c. 425 BCE
HERODOTUS

Born in Halicarnassus, in the Persian Empire, the Greek writer Herodotus is best known as the author of the Histories, an account of the events and leading figures of the Greco-Persian wars.

▽ The Parthenon ruins, Athens

447 BCE BUILDING OF THE PARTHENON BEGINS

After Greek forces had defeated the Persians, Athens began to thrive again. Pericles oversaw the construction of a number of monuments on the Acropolis, most impressive of which was the Parthenon, a temple dedicated to the goddess Athena, patroness of the city, to replace the temple destroyed during the Persian invasion. The building work was finally completed in 432 BCE.