

The Islamic world developed a sophisticated cartographic tradition beginning with the al-Balkhi school in Baghdad in the 9th century CE. This map, compiled by the geographer al-Istakhri around 970 CE, shows the world divided into halves by two great seas.

