

7 Lay tissue paper above and below the bag and stitch down one long side of the bag through the open end of the zip, as shown, leaving a 1cm ($\frac{1}{2}$ in) seam allowance. Remove the pins and tissue paper.

8 Repeat on the second long side of the bag, making sure the handle is sandwiched inside and the top edge is folded over level with the opposite side so the zip sits evenly.

9 Cut off the excess zip at each end, then turn the bag to the right side, through the open zip. Iron on a low temperature or according to the manufacturer's instructions.
