

Lecturer

Einstein first became a university lecturer in Switzerland in 1908 and a professor in Prague (now in the Czech Republic), four years later. As his fame grew, he was in great demand as a lecturer.

“I believe in intuitions and inspirations... At times I feel certain I am right while not knowing the reason.”

Albert Einstein,
The Saturday Evening Post, 1929