

GHARIALS

The endangered gharial occurs only in the rivers of India. Its long jaws are ideal for catching fish. Unlike other crocodilians, the female does not carry her young but she does give them some care.

ALLIGATORS

Apart from the rare Chinese alligator, alligators are found only in the USA. Their close relatives, the caimans, live in Central and South America. All these creatures live in freshwater swamps and rivers, and feed on fish, birds, and mammals.
