

BEAVERS

There are two species of beavers: North American and Eurasian. Both are river-dwellers. They create waterways for their own purposes by building dams out of branches, mud, and stones.

