

Highest versus tallest

A mountain's height is measured from sea level. Everest is indisputably the highest mountain on Earth. Mauna Kea, in Hawaii, is nowhere near as high as Everest, but it is a volcano rising from the deep ocean floor. If measured from its base to its peak, Mauna Kea is Earth's tallest mountain.

